If you would like to find out more about donating items and books to the bookstore, please see our donations page.

As we sort through the donations we receive, we keep the materials that the library can use. Right now, another library user might be enjoying or learning from the books or materials you donated.

The Friends of the Library Bookstore gives book lovers a chance to find amazing deals on a wide variety of titles. You can also share your love of literature with others by donating titles. Another bargain hunter might give them a new home.

Your generosity fills library shelves and provides funding for the many library programs the Friends support throughout the year.
