Write a review of the book, including plot points, if you wish:

When a young Amish wife and mother witnesses the horrible death of her husband and son she must raise her young daughter alone. She struggles with understanding God's will and the mystery of her failing sight. When she meets a young reporter from New York she is attracted by him, will her parents keep them apart? Or will they find love for each other in the end and God's will? Together she and this man embark on an adventure to find out the story behind a lost postcard.
